Episode 4: Show Notes

- Guest: Sandy Pablik, Special Projects Liaison at the Mexican American Opportunity Foundation \(MAOF\), a Resource & Referral (R&R) agency in Los Angeles County, with nearly 5 years of experience supporting early care providers.
- Works closely with the Child Care Initiative Project \(CCIP\), supporting new providers, those expanding licenses (from small (8 children) to large (14 children)), and providers reopening after closure—particularly those serving infants and toddlers.
- Focuses heavily on supporting Family, Friend, and Neighbor \(FFN\) providers, both those participating in the Alternative Payment Program \(APP\) (subsidy-based) and those seeking guidance to become licensed or improve quality.
- Walks families through the subsidy process and helps connect them to licensed providers using MAOF's Resource & Referral database, matching needs by ZIP code, age, care type (family child care vs. center-based), etc.
- Provides FFNs with pre-licensing visits, hands-on guidance on creating safe and developmentally appropriate environments, and emotional support to overcome fear of state licensing analysts/inspections.
- Facilitates ongoing professional development and training through initiatives like the Gateways Program and All Our Kin (financial literacy and business training), with topics ranging from tax prep to child development, health and safety, and inclusion of children with special needs.
- Addresses systemic barriers FFNs face, including language access, limited technology use, immigration-related fears \(ICE intimidation\), funding cuts, and lack of resources for materials (e.g., cots, furniture) or community-building (like providing food at trainings).
- Emphasizes that FFNs are not “just babysitters”—they are professionals and passionate caregivers, deserving of recognition and investment. Calls on policymakers and community leaders to remember that investing in early care means investing in the future.
