

California Early Learning Career Lattice (Career Lattice) – Educational Requirements

The Career Lattice defines a progression of roles and the training and education necessary to demonstrate competence in a wide variety of positions in early learning. It identifies a common framework through which professionals can evaluate their progress towards their own career goals. The Career Lattice is a guide to help professionals in the early learning field to think about their career path and professional development. The Career Lattice does not change any of the existing regulations or licensing requirements for working in a child care center, infant/toddler program, preschool, family child care home, or TK-third grade teacher or early childhood program administrator. To learn more about the Career Lattice please read the California Early Learning Career Lattice Guide at <https://www.cde.ca.gov/sp/cd/ce/documents/caelcareerlatticeguide.docx>.

California Early Learning Career Lattice – Educational Requirements

Level	A. Early Learning Caregiver/Teacher/K-3 Teacher	Levels 1-4 do not have any subcategories. The space below includes important notes and considerations for each level.
1	8 hours of training in health & safety and/or child development. Example: On-boarding to lattice for family, friend and neighbor care providers	Level 1 is a point of entry for people interested in working in the early learning field. At this level 8 hours of training on health and safety and/or child development is needed. This is a good starting point for people who have been providing informal care and are interested in pursuing a role in a family child care home or preschool. Local Resource and Referral agencies are a recommended starting point for finding training on health and safety or child development.
2	Current Family Child Care Licensing Requirements Example: family child care provider	Level 2 is set at current licensing requirements for family child care providers. Currently this level requires 16 hours of health and safety training in addition to training on signs of child abuse. This is the minimum amount of training required for family child care homes. Visit the DSS Resources for Providers website at http://www.cdss.ca.gov/inforesources/Child-Care-Licensing/Resources-for-Providers to learn more about family child care provider requirements and resources.
3	16 hours of health & safety training and mandated reporter training + 45 hours of training (state-approved and/or Resource & Referral agency training) OR 3 semester (4.5 quarter) units of ECE/CD/HD Example: family child care provider	Level 3 is a point where people should consider transitioning from training to college coursework. This level is a bridge from family child care entry requirements to meeting requirements for working as an aide in licensed preschool. The majority of people choose to attend child development classes at their local community college. Usually 3 semester units are earned through a single child development class. Some colleges and universities in California operate on a “Quarter” system and 3 semester units is equivalent to 4.5 quarter units. See the Career Lattice Guide for more information on taking courses.
4	6 units in ECE/CD (CD Permit Assistant Teacher) Example: Teacher aide	Level 4 is equivalent to the first level (Assistant) of the California Child Development Permit. At this stage it is important to be taking the “Core” courses which include: child/human growth & development; child/family/community or child and family relations; and programs/curriculum. Completing these units provides a beginning foundation in child development and is required as one moves up the Career Lattice.

Appendix: Understanding the Structure of the Career Lattice

The image on page 1 represents a section of the career lattice showing an example of levels 1 through 3, and vertical and horizontal arrows indicating how the lattice is organized. Career lattice levels are found on the left axis. Levels 1-4 do not have sublevel categories (education categories). Starting at level 5, the career lattice includes sublevels for different early learning roles.

The education sublevel categories are:

- A. Early Learning Caregiver/Teacher/K-3 Teacher: early learning professionals who work directly with children
- B. Early Learning Administrator/School Administrator: administrators and/or supervisors who oversee early learning staff working with children
- C. Early Learning Specialist/Innovator: early learning professionals who provide specialized services like coaching, mentoring, or training
- D. Early Learning Infrastructure Support: early learning staff who provide support or program management to the early learning field.

An image of cell 4A from Level 5 on page 5 is an example of the kind of information found in each cell. The first information in each cell indicates the educational qualifications required to meet the level; the information in parentheses represents educational equivalents to the California Child Development Permit; information beginning with the word “example” are examples of roles early learning staff can consider at this level or higher.
